Little Change in Law.

There is little change in the bill creating the highway board except that the board members must come "from different parts of the state." Under the old plan the board members had to come from north Georgia, middle Georgia and south Georgia. The new law provides only that the membership be scattered.

The terms of the commissioners are as before, for six years, but the appointments run from February 1, instead of January 1, as heretofore. This gives the incoming governor instead of the outgoing evecutive, the naming of the board member when the terms expire.

The resources bill was rushed through the senate at the close of one of the busiest days of the present session, a day which saw the reorganization of the highway department and other important measures completed or nearly completed.

The senate passed, 41 to 0, the Rivers' post roads bill to incorporate rural mail routes in the state highway system. It must go back to the house, where it originated, for concurrence in Civil Service Passes.

The administration's civil service bill, subject to a heated two-day de-bate in the senate, passed that body, 37 to 9, carrying a clause absorbing present employes into the system without examination.

A last-minute amendment by Senator Millican, of Atlanta, who was chairman of the sub-finance committee which drew the bill, would set June 1 as the effective date of the measure. Under the original draft it would have gone into effect immediately.

The civil service bill must go to the house for a vote there.

The highway patrol and drivers' li-cense bill, to which Governor Rivers has said he is "friendly," was sent to a conference committee of the senate and house for ironing out differences between those two bodies.

After being passed by the house, the measure ran into 30 amendments in the senate and was then sent to in the senate and was then sent to a senate subcommittee where 11 more were added. It passed the senate in that form. The house yesterday declined to accept the senate changes, although Representative Sutton, of Wilkes county, administration floor leader and author of the measure, said many of them undoubtedly would be adopted.

many of them undoubtedly would be adopted.

Representing the senate on the conference committee are Senators Atkinson, Lindsay, of Decatur, and Pope, of Cairo. House members are Representative Sutton, Trappell, of Candler county, and Cochran, of Thomas county.

Textbook Bill to Rivers.

The administration free school books bill, providing for the state to furnish texts to all grades, was sent to Governor Rivers during the day when the senate approved a joint conference committee report. The house had approved the report Tuesday.

proved the report Tuesday.

Further evidence that the legislators were being spurred by increasing talk of an extra session was contained in the announcement by Speaker Roy V. Harris that three sessions a day would be necessary in the house during the last two and a half weeks of the session which ends March 25. The night sessions would begin next week.

The house ways and means committee recommended favorably two major tax measures changing levies on tobacco and incomes and a third, known as the general tax act, fixing rates on businesses and occupations.

The three measures were designed to raise approximately $5,500,000 more than is now coming into the state treasury, of which leaders estimated $4,000,000 alone would come from the new income tax measure.

Tax Provisions.

Chief provisions of the income tax measure were the raising of rates and a lowering of exemptions from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons and from $3,500 to $2,500 for those who are married. The rates would run from 1 per cent on incomes of $2,000 to 12 1-2 per cent for all over $50,000.

R. H. Freeman, of Bibb county, chairman of the ways and means committee, said the proposed cigaret tax would amount to 3 cents a package on popular brand cigarets, but would be lower than at present as a general rule for cigars.

Taxes would be placed on smoking tobacco, chewing tobacco and snuff which now escape a levy.

Freeman estimated the increased yield from the tobacco tax at $1,000,000. He said it was modeled largely after the Alabama law.

The 70-page general tax act does not contain many major changes. Freeman said, but it is estimated clarifying provisions to reach sources now escaping taxation should yield $500,000 more than usual.

Fair Trade Act Wins.

The house completed legislative action on the Lindsay "fair trade" act to permit minimum retail price contracts between manufacturers, distributors and retailers. Introduced in the senate by Lindsay, of Decatur, and passed there. The measure now goes to the Governor.

Shortly after acting on the Lindsay bill, the house killed another measure known as the "price discrimination" act which would have prohibited rebates from manufacturers to retailers. Sponsors said it was modeled on the Robinson-Patman federal law.

The vote on the Lindsay measure was 132 to 34 and on the "price discrimination" act which would have prohibited rehates from to 70.

Liquor Bill Up Monday.

The Hastings liquor bill calling for a legal option election before repeal would become effective in any county, was placed on the house calendar for Monday.

HARTSFIELD RECALL FAILS WHEN BACKERS BREAK PLEDGES OF AID

T've Got To Earn a Living, Says Lawyer Crespi in Dropping Action.

The Hartsfield recall movement has

The Hartsfield recall movement has been recalled.

Joseph S. Crespi, the lawyer who originated the petitions seeking a recall election because he averred Mayor Hartsfield did not keep his campaign promises, yesterday stated he is no longer sponsoring the movement. The reason for the recall of the recall is because the supporters of the movement failed to keep their precall selection promises, Crespi declared.

The Hartsfield recall movement has been in some the will of all the voters and not to a select few.'

recall election promises, Crespi declared.

The lawyer said for the past ten days many persons from all walks of life, and also a number of organizations, had promised support and financial aid but when the time came for delivery, the money and leadership were not forthcoming.

"Hence, in view of the absence of material assistance that each and every person volunteered in person, by telephone and mail, it is my duty at this time to state that the recall movement must cease for lack of co-operation by those who seek it most but act so little," was the way Mr. Crespi summed up the situation.

Promises Violated.

In the final analysis, it appeared that the campaign promises of Mr. Crespi's followers were violated even more than Mr. Crespi alleged Mayor Hartsfield's campaign pledges were.

Crespi, in departing from the movement which he asserted had gained some 2,000 supporters, declared that the cost of such a recall campaign was great and that as a young lawyer he was forced to devote his time to bankruptcy, only $3,000 in cash assets ment which he asserted had gained some 2,000 supporters, declared that the cost of such a recall campaign was great and that as a young lawyer he was forced to devote his time to earning a living. Outlining the numberless promises he had gotten and stating that "with a bare exception or two," all were broken, the lawyer philosophized: "It is to be regretted that such a fine spirit dwindles when the time comes for delivery."

"My withdrawal may be a surprise to many people and a disappointment to others," said Crespi. "Yet, when I fully explain myself, I fell certain that all will understand.

"From the very beginning of the movement, there were many people in all walks of life who were very much disappointed at our mayor's performance, and otherwise there was a wile dissention of opinion.

"Then, when the law went into effect as to the Sunday beer ban, the spark was seemingly set off and all were for recall without delay.

Not Seeking Money.

"I do not represent any beer dealers and I refrained from going to beer concerns that suffer financially from these laws to obtain financial aid. It was not my purpose to use this as a vehicle to promote myself financially. First and last it was a means to seek a revote of the people, and, to repeat a former statement, it would vindicate the mayor or else prove otherwise," Crespi said.

The lawyer then explained that so many people volunteered financial help in the recall campaign and proceeded to break the promise that it proved the old saying, "Everybody's business is nobody's bus less."

He denied being a "Hartsfield man bent on disturbing the plans of others to recall the mayor" and asserted he was a "non-political citizen."

Crespi, in recalling the recall, pointed out to those who continue to feel the movement is necessary that "this 'this'.

McCain, president Agnes Scott College, in an address a Monday of this week, outlined in Monday of this week, outlined in a general way the possibility—even the probability—of Atlanta becoming a university center through the coordination of Emory University, Agnes Scott College, the Georgin School of Technology and other institutions and agencies of the community. He indicated that this friendly effort on the part of the state and privately en part of the state and privately lowed institutions would likely clude some contributions from the University of Georgia.

President McCain stated that this plan is receiving careful and serious consideration on the part of the trustees and faculties of the respective institutions in the hope that there may be provided in Atlanta the essential facilities for the pursuance of the doctor of philosophy degree and that wider apportunity may be offered to receiving careful and serious wider opportunity may be offered to undergraduates, postgraduates, and wider opportunity may be offered to undergraduates, postgraduates, and the public generally for research, for specialization, and for cultural development. It is believed that these facilities may be made available without any of the institutions in anywise losing their identity. President McCain cited Cleveland and Toronto as illustrations of such coordination.

Certain foundations have indicated their interest in the proposal which will require a minimum of six million dollars. It is likely that, should the proposal meet with final approval, there will be an appeal to friends of education for added endowment and equipment for the co-operating institutions, and the proposal meet with final approval, there will be an appeal to friends of education for added endowment and equipment for the co-operating institutions.

PERSUADER There is no need to mention names, but the Governor of this senator's state was in town a few days earlier. There may be some legitimate doubt about how clear the senator's con-

There is no doubt about his political connection At least the Governor told friends that he had come to Washington for the dual purpose of flood control and fixing up the congressional delegation for Mr. Roosevelt's court plan. He proudly announced that all save one of the house members had been persuaded to support the President, that one of his senators did not need to be persuaded, but that the

Mr. Weiss was a very obstreperous enemy of the Roosevelt administration up to the time of Huey's death, and once, during a senatorial inquiry into the financial affairs of the Long outfit, he got up out of the witness chair and told General Ansell, who was needling him with questions, that he was of more than half a mind to take him outside and bust him one for luck.

As a boxing spectacle that would have been one of the worst fights the world has ever known, and Mr. Farley, as an old prizefight commissioner, probably would have used his influence to get both boys barred for life. But the incident just goes to show what a rowdy sort of politician Mr. Weiss is, and to indicate the feeling between save one of the house members had been persuaded, but that the dent, that one of his senators did not need to be persuaded, but that the other senator—this particular senator, whom he named—was not really a fence-sitter, as he proclaimed to be, but would make two speeches for packing the court.

The Governor certainly must have been in touch with supernatural that Huey was going on the air and sneering the name of Franklin Del-a-no Roose-velt. Huey had a special way of crowding all the ornery; personal spite of a political ornery, personal spite of a political feud into the mere pronounciation of Mr. Big's name, and it took some audacity to do it at the time, because Mr. Roosevelt was riding high just the bandwagon.

While the exact relationship of all these parties of the first, second, third and fourth parts may never be straightened out to the satisfaction of realists, the point is clear.

Unless these miracles stop, Mr. Roosevelt is going to win congressional approval for his program.

BULGING FIGURES

Business statistics are better than business. The Federal Reserve Board has announced January industrial production was 115 per cent of 1923-25 averages. These figures indicate the factory whistles are screaming prosperity gauged at 15 per cent above the so-called normal period of 12 years ago. They are misleading.

The fact is the January-February situation was just the same as the 1923-25 averages, if you allow for a 15 per cent increase in the population. And if you allow for other factors, such as increases in the standard of living, you will find the current condition actually subnormal.

The most completely adjusted index on this basis is probably Barron's, It shows January at 86 per cent of normal, rather than 115

Before insulin, more than half the deaths from diabetes were due to diabetic coma; today only one out of 20 diabetics dies from coma.

Of what concern is this to the reader who hasn't diabetes and does not expect to have it? Well, an excellent authority (Joslin) conservatively estimates that 2,500,000 persons United States have or will have diabetes.

I'm no authority, but just from prowling around and having infinite leisure to ponder these questions I estimate that besides the true diabetics there are at least 10,000,000 more potential diabetics in circulation, the betics there are at least 10,000,000 more potential diabetics in circulation, and I hope this talk may interest a million or more of them.

Potential Diabetics (PDs) are distinguished from True Diabetics (TDs) by real authorities thus:

A true diabetic has 0.14 per cent or more sugar in his blood fasting and 0.17 per cent or more after a meal, with sugar in urine plainly related to diet. A potential diabetic has sugar in the urine after a meal, especially a meal including a go 1 deal of carbohydrate food (starch or sugar) but has less than 0.14 per cent of sugar in his blood fasting, and less than 0.17 per cent after a meal.

A normal person has between 0.08 and 0.11 per cent of sugar in his blood fasting and less than 0.18 per cent in the blood with none in urine after a full meal.

Many research authorities have observed that vitamin B favors the carbohydrate metabolism, and acts like insulin.

When There Is No Vision, the People Perish By ROBERT QUILLEN

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden."
"And the poor have the gospel preached to them."
"Blessed be ye poor, for yours is the kingdom of God."
When the church was young and its inspiration fresh and strong, it was the champion of the poor and oppressed—the slave and serva It suffered persecution and poverty until an emperor who was a olitician adopted it as an instrument of power and thus made it fashonable. Through the ages it has survived enmity, power, riches, hypocrisy, ignorance and indifference. Now it faces another crisis, for within the next 10 years it will be forced to choose between God and Mammon.

Unseen and unfelt by the favorites of fortune, a strange new force is stirring all the earth. From China to Mexico and from India to Spain the poor are lifting their heads and asking for a greater share of the earth's abundance. They do not ask for much. They do not demand riches and luxury and leisure. "Give us," they say, "our daily bread. Let us have enough to eat. Give us enough clothing and fuel and shelter to keep us warm. Give us a chance to earn what we need. Let us have education. Give us freedom from the fear of want, the fear of physical abuse and insult and the shame of class inequality. Let us look the world in the face and feel that we are men." If the church is not with them, it will be against them.

If it offers them friendship and sympathy and help, it may convert the world to brotherly love and kindness and peace. They will love and honor it as the poor did long ago.

But if it turns against them and takes the part of tyranny and injustice and exploitation, they will hate it and scorn it and curse it, and its influence will be lost for generations.

We need not guess what will happen, for recent history has shown t to us. All great forces are dangerous unless they are controlled by intelli-gence. If this new one is not controlled by a sympathetic and under-standing church, it will be controlled by strange isms that have no God but a man in a Sam Browne belt.

Editor Constitution: Real estate is carrying the largest expense of city and county government. The largest portion of county income is derived from 70 per cent of city assessment. Property owners of Atlanta pay for practically everything the county does for them. When they record deeds, file wills, or lose a suit, they pay the cost. The county tax money is mostly expended for the benefit of citizens who live outside of the city. A dispossessory warrant was $1.50 in the old justice of the peace court; the present cost is $4.

More Births Seen As Aid to Railways

LONDON, March 3.—(P)—The Bishop of London, assailing "miserable propaganda for birth control," asserted today larger population would solve the problem of railroad deficits.

He said he agreed fully with a railroad official who told him, "What we want is 10,000,000 more Britishers."

For Thousands Who Followed this Guide to Better Control of Colds

1: To Help PREVENT Many Colds

At the first warning sneeze or sniffle or the slightest irritation in the nose—quick!—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. This specialized medication is expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off head colds in their early stages.

2. To Help END a Cold Sooner

Of course, some colds strike without warning, or get by even the best precautions. Then you need your dependable Vicks VapoRub. Go straight to bed and massage it briskly on the throat, chest, and back for 3 full minutes. Then spread a thick layer of VapoRub over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Long after you relax into restful, hour—loosening phlegm, easing your cough, relieving irritation, Sickness from Colds Cut In Half!

The two simple steps outlined above, together with a few sensible health rules, are the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. In the biggest colds-clinic ever held—with 17,353 people as subjects—Vicks Plan resulted in fewer colds and shorter colds. It cut sickness from colds more than half!

The trial, which might have been just another item on the police blotter except for the psychological interest in the two cultured young defendants, stirred comment throughout Russia.

Public Prosecutor Volkov, who demanded rigorous punishment of the two young men, urged their exile to Siberia "where they may be regenerated into the ranks of wonderful Soviet youth."

Once they tried to boycott Jack Dempsey. Just as now they are talking of boycotting Maxie Schmeling, the visiting German boxer.

They called Jack Dempsey a 'slacker" and various so-called patriotic organizations tried to against his tight with the young man from France, M. Carpentier, he whom the gal feature writers lovingly termed "The Orchid

Some boos greeted him. But there went up such a great cheer that it echoed over the New Jersey flats. And the worry and the bitterness slipped from the unshaven Dempsey and he went out to annihilate the Orchid Man. He told me once that that cheer was one

The promoters found that the American public, despite the boycott propaganda, had given them the largest gate in the history of the ring. There was $1,789,238 in the till when all was said and done. And the Orchid Man permanently removed as a contender.

The only fights which grossed more than that one were two subsequent fights in which this same Dempsey fought Gene Tunney, the one-time marine who was in our town for a few hours Tuesday. And they were not a great deal higher in receipts than this one with Carpentier.

All of which brings up to the present day. When there is talk of a boycott of the Max Schmeling-Jim Braddock fight-if and when-it is held.

AS TO BOYCOTTS.

It should be admitted at the very beginning of any fistic discussion, that the only way to get rid of Max Schmeling is much more modest figure. It did not halt the fight. But it did frighten the promoters so they are by no means sure they want to step in there and wage a brisk warfare for xie Schmeling. And his rights. There are a lot of angles to the affair. In the first place promoters are not altruistic gentlemen who are at all interested in Max Schmeling except as a gate attraction. If the boycott will prevent the fight from drawing real money they do not care at all what happens to the visiting German. In the second place, they think the German would back to Germany with the title and keep it there. And the title is necessary to the promoters. And quite valuable. In fact, very valuable.

It should be understood that only Max Schmeling is aroused REVOLTA LEADS about the ideals of the situation, if, indeed, there be any. The promoters are not. And Max Schmeling, if the shoe were on the other foot, would greet the problem with a good, hearty

THIS ONE MAY WORK.

The boycott now being considered and, in some sections, organized, might be effective to a point which would materially reduce the profits to promoters and principals. Most certainly there would be no million-dollar gate.

There would not be a half-million-dollar gate. I see by the papers that Max Schmeling is asking the newspapers to fight his battle and see that justice is done.

I am very sorry not to be able to add a very small voice in behalf of Max Schmeling and his cause. I am not even sure

Max Schmeling happens to be a representative of a certain bable starting lineups:

I recall Max Schmeling very pleasantly. He is a likable, if reticent young man. He takes his money back to Germany and he cannot bring it out of there if he would. He spends very frugally in this country. But that is a very minor point, if it is one at all.

The point is, whether justly or not, that Max Schmeling represents something which is extremely distasteful to a great many millions of our people.

One must admit he could not do otherwise. If he were to refuse to represent what he does he would find himself in a very awkward situation. He is fairly between the devil and the deen blue sea.

But even so, he wears the organization's stamp. And he cannot fight without having the boycott go on against him anl his fight. It was rather effective when he met Louis. The promoters are worried. And Braddock has repudiated his contract and signed another to meet Joe Louis.

A boycott is distasteful, almost invariably unfair and it is not sporting. But Schmeling can't complain a great deal, if at all, because his organization has made effective the most barbarous and cruel hoycott the so-called civilized world has witnessed since the dark And it continually tightens and enforces this boycott.

And he comes to us as the very beau sabreur, so to speak, of that most vicious of all boycotts. So, it is obvious one cannot don armor and fight for Max Schmeling and his boycott.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(P)—Pitcher Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, tired of seeing movies and workout in gymnasiums, and Shortstop Frankie Crosetti today quit the holdout ranks of the New York Yankees.

The Yankees did not announce the terms, but Colonel Jacob Ruppert described the settlements as "compromises." Gomez had asked for $15,000 and was offered $12,000. Crosetti wanted $15,000 and was offered $13,000.

The signing of these two reduced the New York holdout list to five: Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Red Ruffing, Joe DiMaggio and Red Rolfe.

After signing Gomez dashed from Colonel Ruppert's brewery to his Broadway hotel and boarded an early afternoon train for the Yankee camp in St. Petersburg.

As Gomez describes it, he just got sick of the holdout business. While waiting for Colonel Ruppert to meet his terms, Lefty spent his night talking to Boy Scouts in upper New York, civil clubs in New Jersey and merchants in Brooklyn. He was even drafted to present prizes to outstanding oyster shuckers the other night. After all this he was easy for the colonel.

Gomez's performance was disappointing and Ruppert this year offered him a $7,500 contract. In their first conference this was hiked to $10,000, in the second to $12,500 and in the third Ruppert refused to meet Lefty's request for $15,000.

Crosetti was originally offered $10.

Crosetti was originally offered $10,000, the same as he got last year. This was boosted to $13,000, before Crosetti showed much interest.

Advised that No. 1 holdout Lou Gehrig had flown to California today, Colonel Ruppert demurred faintly. "He might at least have let us know," Ruppert said.

The mystery surrounding the taped wrist of Cowboy Luttrell, the riot man from Texas, may be solved Friday night at the Atlanta theater. The mystery positively will be unraveled, according to Orville Brown, who meets Luttrell in a return match.

Twenty years hence he can greet the young Lumpkin and say, in a fond tone, "Son, I recall the very day your father reported for the team. I hope you will be as good a man as he."

Lumpkin was the real iron man of the Georgia team last fall. He played approximately 450 minutes out of a possible 600.

He saw no relief at all in the Fordham and Georgia Tech games and was in 56 minutes of the victory over Tulane. Just now he is busy with

Of Drunken Driving

PITTSBURGH, March 3.—(UP)
The question whether Frederick Zucher, or his black horse was intoxicated was settled triumphantly tonight by the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The state decided the horse was not intoxicated, since it had eaten only apples; therefore, it reasoned, Zucher must have been, since he was charged with "riding a horse while intoxicated."

The suspicion that Zucher, a salesman, or his horse was under the influence of something besides a balmy autumn day, arose last November 9 when Zucher and his horse were seen ambling down the highway, generously frequenting both sides of the road and parts of the sidewalk.

A patrolman stopped them and discovered that Zucher's horse had a sore mouth, from eating apples.

According to the commonwealth's theory, Zucher stopped frequently to buy drinks, and each time he stopped, he fed an apple to his horse. It was possible to tell how many drinks he bought, O'Donnell explained, from the number of apples the horse had eaten—and the horse's mouth was sore.

Cut-offs, by which the current is whisked through the neck of a bend instead of around it, the Bonnet Carre spillway and new and higher set-back levees in the lower valley made forecasting difficult for the 1937 flood.

Government engineers said they would know more about the revamped river after they study its antics under the new flood control plan. Engineers and forecasters said they believed the danger of flood had passed.

NO CARRYING CHARGES UP TO 18 MONTHS TO PAY By Sally Forth.

As THIS is being written a charming and popular Atlanta belle is aboard a mighty steamship which is ploughing its way across the Pacific en route to Hawaji. She is titian-haired Judy King, who sailed Monday from San Francisco for a spring vacation in the famed "Peatl of the Pacific," where she will remain for the coming three weeks. Judy is accompanied by Mrs. Kate Hodgson, of New York, formerly of Atlanta, and Mary Fisher, of Detroit, whose family founded the famous automobile body-building industry. Mary and Judy are two of the outstanding horsewomen of the country, the former owning the famous "Dixanna Farms," while, of course, Georgians are familiar with the beautiful King stables on the Mount Perrin road.

For the past month Judy has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Reid Albee, of Larchmont, N. Y., at their ranch home in Phoenix, Ariz. There have been a series of affairs taking place therein which the lovely Atlantan has taken an active part. Horseback riding is, of course, one of the leading pastimes, but there are many other sports which the colony there enjoys. After her return to the States from Hawaii, Judy will go to Sea Island, where she will supervise the finishing touches on her new home there, and then she will dash back to Atlanta to work her horses in preparation for the Atlantic City horse show in May.

DIXIE WOOLFORD found flying here from Dallas, Texas, such an altogether delightful experience that she wants to do all her traveling by air. Dixie arrived Tuesday afternoon to visit Ted Davis at her home on Peachtree Battle avenue—her first visit back to Atlanta since her family established residence in the Texas city last fall.

The trip seemed especially planned for Dixie, for Ted's brother, "Boss" Davis, piloted the plane, and another Atlanta friend, Glenn Holland, was the co-pilot. Which made everything very homey, according to Dixie, with so many familiar faces around. This impression was increased when Glenn started serving luncheon to the passengers. Not that serving luncheon comes under the heads of the co-pilot's duties, but it seems that pretty young stewardess who oraccompanies the, ship was ill that day. So Glenn was just pinch hitting for her,

Among the passengers aboard was the celebrated Gene Tunney, who was en route east from Cal-"Not that Mr. Tunney paid any attention to anyone. "for he was too engrossed in the new American history he was reading. But it was a thrill just to sit opposite him."

Mrs. Hurt's cousin, Mrs. Ewell Gay, another Atlantan sojourning in Miami, was a guest at the luncheon, as was Mrs. William J. McKenna, the former Isolene Campbell, who maintains a winter home at the Florida resort.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holcomb, whom Atlanta relinquished last fall to Miami for residence, were others entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Elliott's guests and for Mrs. Gay, who visited her mother, Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr., who spent the winter months in Miami.

Attending the races at pic-turesque Hialeah Park and taking fishing trips aboard the Elliotts' fishing vessel were other pleasures enjoyed by the Atlantans when not dining and dancing at the smart hotels and clubs for which Miami is noted.

In the first place, I know absolutely nothing about women. So I ought to make that lonely deserted place a flow-ering garden.

She would have graciousness and poise. All people would feel at ease, happy, in her presence. She would give pleasure by her grace and tact. Every man takes pride in a home that is attractive and comfortable. If the woman can create that kind of a the woman can create that kind of a the woman can create that kind of a home, if she knows how to run its ma-chinery without letting her husband participate in its petty annoyances, he is bound to have a pretty strong feel-ing for it. And she herself becomes pleasantly associated in his mind with it

I like a woman to dress well, to have some esthetic sense, and be neat. She should have a natural, healthy ook, and for that reason, I prefer lit-look, and for that reason, I prefer little or no makeup.

But to my humble way of thinking, all women are grand. And to me they're a complete mystery—a mystery I one day hope to solve!

This is a good point in your reducing program to remeasure, to see if you are losing in the right places. Start with the framework of the chest, to estimate the correct measurements of waist, bust and hips.

Pass the tape around the back and under the arms, drawing it together above the bust. Record the chest measurement. Now bring the tape across the center of the bust, drawing it lightly. A proportionate measurement may exceed the chest by one to two and one-half inches.

Now for the waist measurement. In the streamlined figure, the waist is slenderer than the bust by at least

Dear Miss Chatfield: The girls get the big end of your column and here is a man's problem that will help to balance things. My wife and I got along pretty well and while we weren't extremely happy, we could take it. Then a certain married woman came along with a notion to go after me. We fell in love with one another, and lost no time declaring it. I am sorry to say a child was born to her which her husband believes is his child and so there was no scandal. My wife and I gradually grew further and further apart and we are separated. The other woman's husband wants a divorce which she refuses to give him unless he makes provision for the child which, as h say, he thinks is his. With my home broken up and her marriage on the rocks I have tried to persuade her to let the money matter drop, take her divorce and marry me. I object to her trying to get another man to support my baby. Well I finally flew off the handle, said things that were not fitting and she has fallen out with me. I ask you: Has she played fair with me? She is getting by without facing the music. You have a true story here for your column and I hope this bitter experience I have had will help somebody. T. Answer: My friend, how could you expect a woman to play fair with you after the two of you conspired against your wife and her husband? We don't have separate sets of morals for separate relationships. We have one set and which we use in every instance. The two of you indulged in the meanest form of cheating and persecuting your dear ones. Neither of you had the slightest regard for your marriages nor for the feelings of your partners. The woman made a cukold of her husband and if he hasn't been humiliated by the public's knowing his pitiful plight, he has felt outraged as shown by his desire for divorce and his refusal to make a money settlement on the woman and the baby. Your own wife has certainly been humiliated privately, if not publicly, your children have been deprived of their right to grow up in a normal home and have been denied the privileges which they might have had if you hadn't run out on your family. separate relationships. We have one set and which we use in ever in stance. The two of you indufed in search with the property of the control of the husband and if he hand the sightest regard for your partners. The woman made a cukold of her husband and if he hand the prittful plight, he has felt outraged as shown by his desire for divorce and his refusal to make a money settlement on the woman and the baby. Your own wife has certainly been humiliated prices have been denied the privileges which they might have had if you hadn't run out on your family.

You haven't asked me what to do. But I shall suggest that you go to your ex-wife, beg her forgiveness, entreat her to come back to you so that due may make amends to her awound you have done them. As for the illegitimate haby, he is better off in the home where he is than he would be if you and his mother double divorce and remarkanc. The secret of his parentage need never be shand.

It will be hard for both of us, seeing each other every day, having to speak as friends only when our love is still strong and we are remembering happy days. Please help me.

Answer: Some say chloroform. some say a shotgun, some say lethal gas is the best way to put a pup out of it's misery. There is also a choice of methods in the matter of telling a girl that she's no longer in the running for the prize of your hand. The one that would be easiest for her would be the one that infuriated her with you. So if you are sure you don't want to marry her, tell her the truth; namely, that her parents are not the sort you her parents are not the sort you want to be the grandparents of your children and that you are unwilling to marry her because of them. The double raise of partner's bid changes neither in its strength nor in its forcing nature, regardless of intervening bids. A raise from one to three is modified only in the following respects:

1. Since the shaded single raise is abandoned when an opponent over calls, any single raise, therefore, shows concrete values. A minimum double raise need not be given, a Lillian Mae Patterns single raise giving sufficient inference of trength.

2. When an opponent's overcall makes a raise to three the lowest possible raise the responding hand may sometimes be stretched both as to trump support and number of winners. In such cases the raise from one to three is to be considered a single raise only, and to show great strength the responder should jump immediately to four.

A pre-emptive raise to four remains the same if it is a skip of more than one trick (as, one spade by partner, two hearts by opponent, four spades).

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM. HOLLYWOOD, March 3.-Brian herne's antipathy toward Hollywood has changed somewhat as a result of his success with Merle Oberon in "Beloved Enemy," and he has agreed to return for the leading role in "The Great Garrick," to be produced this summer by busy little Mervyn LeRoy. Garrick, a contemporary of Samuel Johnson, was-as the Warners publicity department put its-the John Barrymore of his day, the romantic, handsome lover of the stage. Ace Writer Samuel Raphaelson has been hired to write the screen play, which conto write the screen play, which concerns the actor's life story, and in particular the time, real or imaginary—we think the latter—when Garrick stopped at a small town, put on a performance, and became the object of adoration of a young country miss.

LeRoy, currently working on the picturization of the Ward Greene best-seller, "Death in the Deep South," will put the Garrick flicker into production either before or after "The Great Crooner," a large scale entertainment featuring radio favorite, Kenny Baker, and Margaret Irving of "San Francisco" fame.

The old maxim—if you want to make good in Hollywood, go away from it—still apparently holds good. After scouring the town for 10 beauties who know how to wear clothes, Walter Wanger thumbed down the local product and hired 10 New York girls, with no acting experience whatsoever, for important mannequin roles in his forthcoming technicolor production, "Vogues of 1938." Three of the young ladies figure in the Manhattan Blue Book—Mary Oakes. Frances Joyce, and Katharine Aldridge. All of them have appeared in Billboard and magazine advertisements.

NEW YORK CITY, Tuesday—It was quite a shock to my husband and me when we received a wire on Sunday telling us of the death of Dr. Wilbur M. Dailey. He had been our dentist for over 20 years and looked after all the children and my mother-in-law, so that he was a real family friend.

As the children have grown up and been away at school and college, or have moved to different parts of the country to live, they have naturally lost touch with him, but he never forgot to ask about them whenever my mother-in-law or I went to see him.

This morning she and I went to the funeral in his house on 69th street. Many people were there. His wife, son and brother made a sad little group, and when his son asked to speak to my mother-in-law and me, it was all we could do to tell him how deeply we sympathized with their loss. Whatever success a man achieves in his profession from the material point of view, the thing which really counts is his character and what he means to those nearest him. It was easy to see that there was real love and companionship in this family and one could but hope that the future will hold some consolation for their present sorrow.

Last night I left gayety and laughter in Washington-such are the

The Women's National Press Club held their annual dinner and gave their annual show for the entertainment of their many guests. They draw on much real talent and it was hard to believe that in one scene, the three people who did the "Revolution in Rhythm," were not professional dancers. The skits are always filled with good lines and humorous quips on the weaknesses "of those interesting people" the poor press girls are obliged to follow.

There was one good line they might have added had they only known it, but I was the only one privileged to hear it!

On Christmas Eve when all but one of the press girls had dropped out of the day's activities as we were coming from the last of our official engagements, I heard her murmur, "What a way to spend Christmas Eve!" She certainly would have suggested, had she been an older member, that Christmas Eve be one of the days when my sit-down strike should become most rigid! They suggested as a news story for the coming year, that I do nothing. So, after my present engagements are over, I am going to take them at their word and provide them with much copy on a quiet summer off the record as usual.

What to Eat to Build Resistance to Colds, Flu And Winter's Ailments!

How New Concentrate From the Sea, Rich in Naturally Occurring Minerals and Iodine Helps Fortify Body Against Infections That Lay You Low!

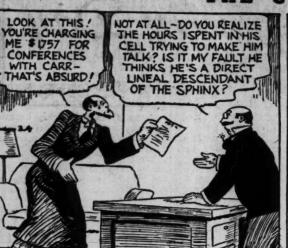

Thousands of folks who regularly suffer with colds, grippe and coughs have found a new, simple way to build rugged resistance to the usual winter ailments. They have stepped out of the class of chronic cold catchers because they have been wise enough to build up their system in such a way that common cold infections just pass them by. Everyone knows when the system is amply supplied with minerals the blood is rich, the glands active, most germs and toxic poisons are readily thrown off. Resistance is high. This explains why some people can go through a winter in which violent epidemics rage, yet remain wholly immune from infection. When the supply of minerals is insufficient the entire body defense crumbles; you become a prey not only to winter infections, colds, coughs, flu, but to practically every other ailment that comes along.

Now try this simple precaution. Along with your regular food add Kelpamalt, the new sea plant concentrate rich in naturally occurring iodine and other minerals such as iron, copper, manganese, calcium, phosphorus, potassium and magnesium. These essential elements contribute to the supply of vital substances necessary for digestion and assimilation. Your own doctor will tell you, also, that to fully utilize the vitamins in your daily diet you must have adequate miaeralization. It is only when you get full nourishment out of your food that you are enabled to build rich red blood, sturdy tissue and adequate resistance to disease.

She had grown very white.

He did not move.
"Wait a minute. I don't get this."
He frowned down on her. "How do you mean, you understood that evening? Understood what?"

Once in a great while a stranger will give you a quick, accurate answer. But you have to be pretty aste to be able to pick out one of those those watches are always right. They are usually tall and thin-faced and don't often sit in the park.

Probably your safest bet is just herry along to your tea. It's much better not to know exactly how late you are anyhow.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

STRANGE BIRDS.

IV—Hornbills.

Among all queer birds, I think the hornbill is a rival for first place. Both males and females have large, bony "helmets" above their beaks. The helmets make them look queer, and the birds also have queer customs.

Hornbills live in warm parts of India and Africa. Most kinds are large, up to the size of a turkey. They can fly, but are slow and noisy about it, and spend most of their time on the ground looking for something to eat. After picking something up, the hornbill's custom is to toss it in the air, then to catch it in the beak as it falls toward the ground.

Way. It guards the brain from the blow of an enemy. The beak and the helmet are so large we might suppose them too be very heavy, but this is not the case. They are composed of strong, but light bone and have air spaces inside.

The strangest fact about hornbills is the custom of putting the females in "prison" during the nesting season. A hollow far up in a tree is chosen, and hollow far up in a tree is chosen, and there the female goes, to lay from one to four eggs. While she is sitting on the eggs, the male goes on trips to get opening. At last a wall is raised, and only a small hole is left. The female cannot get out!

The small hole allows air to go in for the female to breathe, and it also gives the male space to use in passing food to her. She seems to be a willing prisoner. She gives warmth to the nest and her mate scouts around for hericise, insects and other tidbits for her.

prisoner. She gives warmth to the nest and her mate scouts around for berries, insects and other tidbits for her. The wall protects the female from enemies. Her chief foes are monkeys and tree-climbing lizards. Fairly safe from such attacks, she stays in her prison until the young have their feathers. Then both parents knock down the wall by striking with their beaks.

Hornbills do not know how to sing, but the male makes a special kind of noise. This noise has been called "half way between the bray of a donkey and the shriek of a railway engine." It is not pleasant to the ears of a human being, but Mrs. Hornbill probably thinks it sounds just fine. (For nature section of your scrap-

even or worked lower, indicating the belief of some that higher yields are in prospect.

Of the more speculatively tinged gainers, railroad bonds stood out at uniformly higher levels. These low and medium-priced liens finished up fractions to more than a point. Norfolk & Southern 5s of 1961 and certificates scored gains of 2 1-2 points each to 31 and 30 respectively. Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s were up 1 1-2 to 44 1-2, St. Paul 5s of 1975 jumped 1 1-4 to 34 1-4, and Rock Island 4 1-2s were up 1 1-2 to 24 1-4.

Florida East Coast 4 1-2s were reactionary, losing 2 to 80, and "Katy" Adjustment 5s lost 1 to 76 1-4.

The convertible bonds and those with stock purchase privileges had something of a field day, particularly those whose companion securities on the stock board found favor. NEW YORK, March 3.—(P)—Winning popularity along with common stocks most low-priced bonds went ahead in an active market today.

High-grade obligations, on the other hand, were less successful in attracting attention and shifted about uneasily. While a smattering of these issues edged higher, the majority held even or worked lower, indicating the belief of some that higher yields are in prospect.

The Associated Press averages for 20 rails lost 2 of a point to 96.9, the compilation reflecting setbacks by several of its low-yield issues. Others held to narrow ranges.

Turnover for all bonds totaled $19,-162,000, face value, against $13,537,-000 Tuesday.
